To use DURA-Rend's services is to be part of the latest innovations in external rendering technology and systems. The technology we use not only looks better, it lasts longer, is crack-resistant and doesn't need painting. All of DURA-Rend's applicators are fully trained and accredited. We recruit and train to the highest standards in the industry and we pride ourselves on high levels of service. All of DURA-Rend's staff come from solid construction industry backgrounds, having a high level of experience in modern plastering and rendering technology and systems both in the UK and wider Europe, having exceptional knowledge and experience in all applications, material tolerances and building and construction regulations. You simply will not find another company in the UK who know external rendering better than we do.

Don't hesitate to contact us, and we look forward to helping you. Whenever you think External Rendering - think DURA-Rend!
